DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Corisis et al. (US 5956236).

Corisis et al. discloses an electronic component (See Fig. 5 and 6) comprising:

At least one chip 12 (see multiple chips 12) having at least its electrodes (underneath 16, connected to 16) formed exclusively on one surface thereof, and surfaces other than said one surface being continuously covered with a protective material 14b.

Corisis et al also discloses the above electronic component wherein:

- Said protective material comprises an organic resin or an inorganic insulating material (Col. 3, lines 50+)

- A semiconductor chip 12 mounted on a package substrate 10, the electrode formed on a device surface of the chip, and both a side wall and a bottom surface of the chip are covered with the protective material
- Chips bonded to each other
- Chips bonded by said protective material and a solder bump 16 on the electrodes, the electrodes formed solely on one surface of the chip and wherein interspaces and bottom surfaces of the chips are continuously covered by the protective material
- A Chip array

Regarding claims 3, and 8:

A "product by process" claim is directed to the product per se, no matter how actually made, In re Brown, 173 USPQ 685; In re Luck, 177 USPQ 523; In re Fessmann, 180 USPQ 324; In re Avery, 186 USPQ 161; In re Wertheim, 191 USPQ 90 (209 USPQ 554 does not deal with this issue); In re Marosi et al, 218 USPQ 289; and particularly In re Thorpe, 227 USPQ 964, all of which make it clear that it is the patentability of the final product per se which must be determined in a "product by process" claim, and not the patentability of the process, and that an old or obvious product produced by a new method is not patentable as a product, whether claimed in "product by process" claims or not. Note that applicant has the burden of proof in such cases, as the above case law makes clear.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 03/11/2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that:

- On page 4 of the remarks, lines 3-10, applicant argues wafer processing and other process related issues such as manufacturing cost.
- Package 12 is not covered by a protective material
- Only portions of the sidewalls are secured with protective material

The above are not persuasive because:

- Processing steps, as discussed in the body of the rejection, have no patentable weight when the patentability of a device itself is being sought after. See "product by process" remarks above.
- Package 12 is covered by 14b, which reads on the claimed "protective material" in as much as such "protective material" has been defined in the claims such that no other material would read on the claimed "protective material"
- Applicant failed to specifically point out why the present Application specifically requires that a protective material secures more than portions of the sidewalls. The examiner is unable to specifically ascertain what the scope of Applicant's remarks is. However, the examiner will like to point out that protective material entirely covering sidewalls is not claimed. See that the protective material of the prior art is continuous.

The above new grounds of rejection are due to amendments to the claims.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
